

I spent the past few days looking at what our members have brought to this group. Only a few have actually shown us what we will lose if Gallery and iWeb publishing go away, that doesn't diminish the loss. Richard Desomme's Gallery photos set my imagination on fire and Jens Holm brought his many years of passion and family to the web. In his blog, <http://www.blondelimbo.com>, Christopher Mason Taylor has offered some powerful insight on how this may have come to be while Simon Tyrrell's themacgroove.co.uk shows how he has been expanding Apple's world for years. While Jane Sanford Harrison's worlds of design, travel and genealogy are busier than mine, Sara Nichols showed off her media talents to add her appreciation of the web to the petition.

And there is much more out there! This has also been percolating in the Apple Support Communities discussions for several months with hundreds of postings that address the web hosting and iCloud issues with the views now approaching 14,000. Remy Leroy added this Command Guru Petition to the cause with remarkable results in a week <http://cloudpetition.commandguru.com/> as shown here. What is needed is more visibility of what we aggregate here. Share the Petition Link with your Apple friends and get them on board. High visibility attention and celebrity support would also help. This is the message to Apple.

The linked version of this is at <http://web.mac.com/magnant>